Find a COVID-19 Testing sight near you

As businesses begin to reopen, employees are encouraged to get a COVID-19 test if they are at risk of exposure. This includes employees who are in contact with the public or work in industries that have seen outbreaks, such as farming, food processing, animal industries, etc., even if the employee does not have symptoms. Increased testing will help determine where the virus is so we can stop it before it spreads and safely re-engage the economy.

Testing is NOT required for employees to return to work. Testing WILL help us keep workplaces safer by stopping the spread.

Watch for COVID-19 contact tracing text message scams

Contact tracing – the process of identifying people who have come into contact with someone who has tested positive for COVID-19, instructing them to quarantine and monitor their symptoms daily – plays an important role in helping stop the spread of the virus. It's also a process scammers now are targeting through spam text messaging. Unlike a legitimate text message from a health department, which only wants to let you know they'll be calling, this message includes a link to click. Clicking the link will download software onto your device, giving scammers access to your personal and financial information. Ignore and delete these scam messages.

We're here for you: We've made a number of changes at MCA so that we can continue to serve you and the network, including closing the physical MCA office and making arrangements for MCA staff to work remotely since March 16, 2020. All direct phone lines, as well as the general line have been forwarded to mobile phones and staff are all accessible by email as well.

Thank you. Be well and stay safe, everyone.
